□ Human

You are well traveled from your time studying the Ancient Tongue. When you first encounter an important location, creature or item of the civilized world ask the GM a question about it and they will answer truthfully.

Your people speak an older language than the other races, and so are closer to the root of all tongues. The Ancient Tongue is more intuitive to you than it would be to the other races : choose an extra order you can give from the 'In the Ears and Around the Brain' list.

You've dealt intimately with above and below ground races, and have been exposed to many divergent evolutions of the mother tongue. You were also raised by a people prone to speaking clearly and to the point. All in all, you've learned how to communicate like none other. Once per session you can re-roll any Charisma based check.

Tongue of the Ancients

You know bits and pieces of the ancient root language every sentient species once spoke. Although no one speaks The Ancient Tongue every reasoning brain understands it. You can, haltingly, talk to any sentient species whether you know it's language or not. They know you are not speaking their language although they can understand the gist of what you say to them. This does not help you to understand what they may say back!

In The Ears and Around the Brain

The Ancient Tongue circumvents consideration and acts directly on the hearer's will. This seems magical when witnessing the effect it has on sentient creatures, but it is not. Its power is rooted in exploiting their brain's physiology. Choose three orders you can give to sentient creatures when creating the character.

- Stand still!
- Drop what you hold!
- Come to me!
- Go away!
- Silence!

When giving an order, Roll + CHA. On 10+ choose 3, on 7-9 choose 2. On a miss something bad happens, the GM will tell you what.

- You block the words from overtaking your own mind.
- Your words take effect for more than a few moments.
- The hearers do not realize you forced their hands.
- You weave a complex order choose two orders.
- You enunciate properly and are heard over the din of battle or a rambunctious crowd.

This ability overrides conscious thought but may sometimes be overcome by intense instincts of self. Your orders have a tendency to affect everyone who can hear them - enemies, allies, onlookers, and yourself. You hear yourself, even when using ventriloguism. You may choose any distance from hand (whispers) to near (just short of yelling)

Amateur Ventriloguist

You may 'throw' your voice, at any volume, out to a 'near' distance.
